

I am writing about removing the "established business relationship" qualification from the fax regulations, I think it will be bad for business. Also I think that a patient or business relationship should serve as prior consent to active communications. There are already constraints such as HIPAA which already limit communication to the limits set by the patient. I don't think we need any more paper work and consents for these matters. Thank you.